

In Memorium

The President of Canine Benefactors Society Len Boscoe died suddenly January 16, 2010.

Len's enthusiasm and desire to make positive difference for animals and for humans will be greatly missed. Len's work and contributions at the very start of CBS have to a successful start. Len got in and got busy when there was a lot of work to be done. He had a passion to make things work. Even though sometimes he was not feeling well and life had some significant health challenges he did not complain. Even though sometimes it was apparent Len was saddened by health struggles he tried to find something positive to concentrate upon and to improve efficiency or benefits for people and dogs.

Being around this stoicism and determination provides good inspiration to make oneself more appreciative and try harder to make life and the world a better place.

Len would want CBS to continue to provide educational opportunities to make living with dogs a warmer more enjoyable experience for everyone. With the warmth of the memory of all the good things Len Boscoe did we will continue forward. We have appreciated Len's efforts and support.

Glenn Sergius